VERSION 1.2 | 7 OCTOBER 2026

Cookie Policy

Version 1.2. Effective 7 October 2026. This policy explains our approach to cookies and should be read alongside the live cookie information and settings on our website.

1. What cookies and similar tools do

Cookies are small files stored on your device. Similar tools include local storage, pixels and other technologies that store or access device information. They may help a site work, remember choices, measure use or load external content.

Some identifiers can be personal information. Our Privacy Policy explains how Big Cat Boat Charters Ltd handles personal information.

2. Our approach

We distinguish tools needed to provide a service you request from optional tools. We will not treat continued browsing, silence or a pre-ticked box as consent to tools that require consent.

Tools requiring consent should remain off until you make an affirmative choice. Refusing optional tools should not prevent access to basic site information. Certain embedded features may remain unavailable until the relevant choice is made.

If we rely on a lawful exemption, we must meet all its conditions. An analytics tool is not exempt merely because it is described as anonymous or used to improve a website.

Categories and choices

3. Necessary functions

Strictly necessary storage/access may support a service you request, such as a booking session, security or remembering your privacy choice. Consent is not required where the relevant legal exception genuinely applies. We must explain the actual tools used, rather than classifying every functional cookie as necessary.

Disabling cookies in your browser may affect booking or other requested functions. We do not use this as a reason to force optional consent.

4. Optional and exempt tools

Preference tools may remember optional settings. Analytics may measure use. External maps, videos or other embedded services can involve third-party storage/access and personal information. Marketing tools may profile or track activity. Actual use of each category must be verified.

For optional purposes requiring consent, the consent panel must let you accept, reject or choose categories. If statistical storage/access is used under the applicable exception, explain its sole purpose, meet the conditions and provide the required simple objection mechanism. Do not silently enable advertising or cross-service tracking under that exception.

5. Your controls

Use the website's cookie settings control to review or change your choices. The control must remain accessible after your initial choice. Withdrawing consent should be as easy as giving it.

You can also remove or block stored cookies using your browser settings. Removing cookies does not necessarily withdraw a permission saved by a third-party account; consult that provider's controls where relevant.

Consent should be requested again when required, including relevant purpose changes. Rejection should not be repeatedly overridden by unnecessary prompts.

Inventory and contact

6. Live cookie information

Our website uses Complianz to provide cookie choices and information. Its live cookie list identifies recorded tools, purposes, providers and durations. You can consult that list and manage your choices at bigcatboatcharters.com/cookie-policy-uk/.

Provider entries marked as under investigation have not yet been fully classified. A provider listed there is not, by itself, proof that every page loads that service. Contact us if you need clarification about a particular entry.

The site uses WordPress, Elementor and Amelia for its website and booking functions, and Stripe for online payments. Third-party maps or video content can involve their own technologies. Cookie choices apply to purposes requiring consent; essential functions are assessed separately.

7. One authoritative policy

Use the verified live cookie page and consent panel as the authoritative cookie information. If a downloadable version is offered, keep it consistent with the live inventory and identify its date/version. Do not retain contradictory descriptions of consent on separate PDFs.

8. Contact and changes
